It was one of the hottest days of the year, and when Clara Kelley came home from her nursing duties at the hospital, she discovered the central air-conditioning had stopped working. "Time was of the essence because my husband, Tom, is a dialysis patient, so a cool, controlled environment is important," Mrs. Kelley said. "We called Hammond Services, and within two hours, a technician was at our doorstep and very quickly had the problem diagnosed and the repair completed. We were very pleased with the quick response and the professional service we received."
